Introduction

Where Opportunity Meets Talent

The TTI Success Insights® Talent Insights Comparison Report was designed to increase the understanding of two individuals' talents. The report provides insight to three distinct areas: behaviors, motivators and the integration of these. Understanding the potential strengths each person possesses will lead to personal and professional development and a higher level of satisfaction for each.

The following is a comparative summary in the three main areas:

Behaviors

The information dives into the realm of individual behavioral styles, with the aim of highlighting both the similarities and distinctions between yourself and another individual. Proficiency in effective communication holds the potential to be a pivotal factor in determining success or failure in both one's professional and personal spheres. The foundation of effective communication is rooted in the deeper understanding of oneself and the potential outcomes of engaging with another individual.

Motivators

This section of the report provides information on why you are motivated to do what you do. Each person is motivated by a unique set of motivators. Understanding what motivates you, as well as another person, can lower the chance of conflict and improve productivity.

Integrating Behaviors and Motivators

This section of the report will help blend the how and the why of interactions. Once you understand how behaviors and motivators blend together, performance will be enhanced and you will experience an increase in satisfaction.

Behavioral Characteristics

The following report is designed to help Leader and New Hire Bob become more self-aware and aware of each other in order to raise their level of engagement. People tend to be more engaged when comfortable and connected to the activities and people they encounter. This page offers insight into HOW Leader and New Hire Bob prefer to do what they do.

Leader requires many good reasons, as well as the benefits involved, before agreeing to making changes. She likes to set her own pace. When others try to rush her, she feels threatened and may balk. At times she can be quite skeptical. Others may misinterpret this strength as a negative one, but she is only seeking the necessary data. When challenged, she becomes more objective. Leader sometimes finds it difficult to relax until all the work is completed. Leisure time activities often include friends and family. She can be friendly with others in many situations, but primarily with groups of established friends and associates. She is sociable and enjoys the uniqueness of each human being. She usually develops strong attachments to her work group and family. She is a team player but can also exhibit a desire for independence. Leader looks to people for support and inner-satisfaction as a way to reach her personal goals. She wants to be seen as a responsible person and will avoid behavior that could be seen by others as irresponsible.

New Hire Bob can be friendly with others in many situations, but primarily with groups of established friends and associates. He is sociable and enjoys the uniqueness of each human being. He places his focus on people. To him, strangers are just friends he hasn't met! He may tend to agree to avoid confrontation. He can combine and balance enthusiasm and patience. New Hire Bob can be obliging and accommodating; that is, he likes to work with people and help them. He likes public recognition for his achievements. One of his motivating factors is recognition and praise. He likes quality social relationships. He often will become friends with his customers or clients. He is good at fostering enthusiasm in others. New Hire Bob can be seen as a person of good will. He is gregarious and sociable. He will be seen as a good mixer, both on or off the job.
